Concord Pacific achieved the Triple Crown feat with One Pacific in the industry this season by being awarded the Best High-Rise Builder at the UDI Awards, voted by the public as the Best High-Rise in the Vancouver Sun's Readers' Choice Awards, and honoured as the Best High Rise Development at The Georgie Awards.

Every two years the best of the best in the development industry are recognized by a jury of their peers at the Urban Development Institute Industry Awards. Concord Pacific was voted best high-rise builder for the recently completed One Pacific development by a distinguished jury. Thousands of people voted from a shortlisted group of developments for the Vancouver Sun Readers' Choice Award and chose One Pacific as Best High-Rise. The Canadian Home Builders' Association held their annual Georgie Awards for the industry and once again Concord was awarded Best High-Rise Development for One Pacific.

"Concord has given us the opportunity and latitude to push the envelope architecturally and be creative with our amenities. The teams at IBI Group and LIV INTERIORS were up to the design challenge and Centreville Construction executed a complicated build at a very high level. One Pacific and the future Arc development together will form a welcoming gateway to downtown Vancouver," says Peter Webb, Senior Vice President of Development at Concord Pacific.

Vancouver's new high design residential era began with Concord's Erickson development in Vancouver. Concord recognized that the market not only wanted liveable spaces but placed value on memorable and iconic designs and is delivering nationally with Parade & CONCORD CANADA HOUSE in Toronto, THE CONCORD in Calgary and internationally with Principal Tower in London. Concord elevated the bar in Vancouver with THE ERICKSON and One Pacific and will continue this Vancouverism 2.0 trend with The ARC, Avenue One and the rest of the False Creek skyline build out.
